Re: Personal Reference for
Reverend Dr. Grady Mayeaux

It is with great pleasure that I take this opportunity to recommend Reverend Grady Mayeaux for Director of you Faith Based Program.

Reverend Grady and his wife Annette are to of the most unselfish people that I have ever met. He has spent most of his life serving God. He will feed anyone, any race, no questions asked. He is instrumental in helping ministers and preachers by making available education through The Exegetical Bible Institute. He offers degrees in ministry from the Baccalaureate through the Doctoral level. At the beginning of this year he lowered his tuition so more people would benefit from this program.

Brother Grady, as he is affectionately known, is a humble man. He has been quite rich and has given it to the cause of helping other prospers. Today, if he would stop giving, helping and feeding God's less fortunate people, he could do very well for his loving wife, Annette and his family.

God has also given him a vision to help other ministries reach their goals of feeding and assisting the hungry and sick around the world. He offers instruction and help in becoming a non-profit organization. He encourages inter-religion interactions. His belief is that if we get to know enough about each other we will find that we are not so different after all. I stand in agreement with his ethical, faith and moral belief. He lives what he talks about.

I highly recommend this man for any leadership position you may have to offer him. I have three great reasons: 1) He has shown over the years that he is a God fearing believer. 2) He does not love money or seek prestige ... he loves people. 3) He can be trusted.

Sincerely,

Josephine H. Dokes
